Capitol Suspect
Judge to Rule on Whether

By NEELY TUCKER
 Washington Post Staff Writer

Six months of antipsychotic medications have made Russell E.
 Weston Jr. more coherent, but the man accused of killing two Capitol
 Police officers is still suffering from severe paranoid delusions, a psychiatrist testified in federal court yesterday.

The 45-year-old Weston, brought into the courtroom of U.S. District Court Judge Emmet
 G. Sullivan in a wheelchair, has been under court order to take medication in an effort to make him competent to stand trial. Sally Johnson, a public health psychiatrist who oversees his care at a federal prison facility in Butner, N.C., said Weston was showing enough progress that she thought he might one day be able to face
 the murder charges against him.

Johnson told the judge: "He's shown a positive response to the medication. . . . He's demonstrated more expansiveness; he smiles
 when it's appropriate; he's more cooperative with attention to his hygiene; and he's better able to have conversations. . . . He would not be competent tomorrow or by possible sometime within the next two years."

Muslims Aid Embattled House Member

Lawmaker Opposed Pro-Israel Resolution; Rival Backed by Jewish Leaders

By THOMAS B. EDSELL
Washington Post Staff Writer

Members of the Muslim American community are providing extensive support for Rep. Cynthia McKinney (D-Ga.), defending the five-term incumbent against a challenge financed in part by Jewish leaders critical of her stand on Israel.

At least three-quarters of the $234,299 that McKinney has raised from individuals this year is from donors with Muslim or Arab American surnames, the great majority of whom live outside her district.

Meanwhile, her Democratic challenger, former state judge Denise Mayette, has begun raising large sums from Jewish donors alarmed by McKinney's comments on Middle East matters. Mayette plans to spend $500,000 in the three weeks leading to the Aug. 20 primary, top aides said.

As a result, the Atlanta-based 4th District Democratic primary has to some extent become a proxy for the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, with the outcome a test of strength between the Muslim American and pro-Israel Jewish communities.

In May, McKinney was among 21 House members who voted against a pro-Israel resolution that passed with 352 votes. In October, she wrote to Saudi Prince Alwaleed bin Talal, praising him for offering $10 million to New York. City officials rejected the $10 million because bin Talal used the occasion to criticize Israel. "Our Palestinian brethren continue to be slaughtered at the hands of Israelis while the world turns the other cheek," McKinney wrote to bin Talal.

"There are a growing number of people in the United States who recognize, like you, that U.S. policy in the Middle East needs serious examination."

In April 2001, she issued a statement suggesting that the Bush administration may have known in advance of the Sept. 11 attacks. "It is known that President Bush's father, through the Carlyle Group, had—at the time of the attacks—joint business interests with the bin Laden construction company and many defense industry holdings, the stocks of which have soared since September 11," McKinney said.

In an earlier Democratic primary, Rep. Earl F. Hilliard (D-Ala.), who was backed by Arab Americans but not as strongly as McKinney, lost to Artur Davis, who had strong support from Jewish donors across the country.

Hilliard, Davis, McKinney and Mayette are black, but the two Democratic contests have stirred unusual ethnic crosscurrents. Among other things, they have underscored the tensions between Muslims and Jews—and between African Americans and Jews—that sometimes animate local elections.

"Whenever there are any forces that appear to target members of the [Congressional Black] Caucus, all of us are concerned," said Rep. Elijah E. Cummings (D-Md.), first vice chairman of the CBC. He said a number of Jewish friends have told him "there was an effort to help defeat Hilliard, and I have heard that also about the McKinney race."

Cummings said black and Jewish members of Congress are holding dinners and private meetings to try to maintain good relations.

Hilliard, in a post-election interview with the online publication The Black Commentator, said "The only thing I know for sure, that I saw in black and white, is $1,098,000 that [Davis] reported. [It] came from Jews and Republicans."

Many Arab American and

Muslim leaders view Hilliard's loss as an attack on the modest support they have in Congress.

"We have been sucked into a game of becoming involved in races because AIPAC [the American Israel Public Affairs Committee, the premier pro-Israel lobby] has ruthlessly targeted every member of Congress that is not 100 percent Israel, right or wrong," said Sarah Ellantani, communications director of the Muslim Public Affairs Council.

The Ohio-based CAIR-PAC, or Council on American-Islamic Relations, recently sent out a fundraising e-mail telling recipients "Support Cynthia McKinney. She is our strategic choice. Pro-Muslim Candidate Supporter of Palestinian State for over 7 years. Against Secret Eviden. e. Against Aid to Israel."

Bill Banks, McKinney's campaign manager, said Muslim Americans support her reelection because "they feel she has spoken out for the [Middle East] policies of the U.S. to be somewhat balanced." Banks contended that AIPAC has made McKinney the "number one candidate to try to remove from office."

Bob Doyle, who is coordinating Mayette's fundraising, said donations have accelerated rapidly, with over $300,000 raised in the past three weeks. He said he did not know how much of this was from Jewish supporters.

Rep. Cynthia McKinney (D-Ga.) has many Muslim and Arab backers.

AIPAC spokeswoman Rebecca Needler disputed charges that the organization actively sought Hilliard's and McKinney's defeat. "AIPAC is not a PAC [political action committee] and does not rate or endorse candidates," she said. "While AIPAC does represent mainstream Jewish opinion on many issues, sometimes people confuse AIPAC with the pro-Israel community or American Jews at large."

Needler contended that the "decision to elect Artur Davis was made by the constituents of the 7th District of Alabama. And the outcome of the race in Georgia will be made by the constituents of the 4th District, no one else."

1. Jean Abinader of the Arab American Institute (AAI) - The AAI was founded in 1985 to represent Arab-American interests in government and politics. It provides strategies in electoral politics and on policy issues that concern Arab-Americans. It serves as a clearinghouse for Arab-American participation in national, state, and local politics and government; it conducts research on Arab-American constituency; and, it serves as a forum for consensus positions on pressing domestic and foreign policy matters. Finally, it acts as a resource to U.S. opinion and policy makers on a range of Arab-American policy concerns, including U.S. Middle East policy and political trends in the Arab world.

2. Nawar Shora of the Arab-American Anti-Discrimination Committee (ADC) - The ADC was founded in 1980 as a civil rights organization committed to defending the rights of people of Arab descent and promoting their rich cultural heritage. The organization is allegedly non-partisan and the largest Arab-American grassroots organization in the U.S.

3. Salam Al-Marayati of the Muslim Public Affairs Council (MPAC) - MPAC is a public service agency dedicated to establishing the American Muslim constituency as a vital and positive element within American pluralism. It endeavors to disseminate accurate information regarding Islam and Muslims, to serve as a reliable resource for the media, and to encourage an accurate portrayal of Muslims and Islam.

Details: WFO has enclosed the files requested by the Records Management Division by informal memo dated 1/14/2005 in response to a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) Request filed by the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), dated December 2, 2004, on behalf of the ACLU and six other requestors. WFO has not conducted a separate search for e-mails in response to this request, based upon its review of the responsive documents.

WFO has two "main" files (288-WF-227004 and 288-WF-225640) that FBIHQ identified as potentially responsive to the ACLU's FOIA request. One of the requestors, American-Arab Anti Discrimination Committee, is listed in these files as the "victim" of a computer intrusion. The FBI did not conduct an investigation of the American-Arab Discrimination Committee. The FBI conducted investigations based on information received from the Arab-American Discrimination Committee that they were [redacted] advised that an act of trespassing that was sustained for a period of hours and caused an abort of the test would inflict a high price to the Air Force, both from a publicity standpoint and a financial standpoint. [redacted] opined that the protestors will always have a photo opportunity and have many vantage points to photograph themselves standing near some launch facility. [redacted] pointed out that Space Launch Complex #6, located 25 miles from LF 3, is visible from several nearby hilltops, and can give the impression that the protestors succeeded in entering VAFB. [redacted] suggested that the protestors be "allowed" to take their photos at some point away from the actual silo, thereby eliminating any threat. Within this context, [redacted] explained that by not taking aggressive enforcement action in certain areas preserves resources and eliminates some incentive from the protestors to approach LF 3, since the protestors may only have the objective of gaining a photo and being arrested for trespassing.
